Seward Park Audubon Center is seeking talented educators to lead our nature adventure camps in SE Seattle this summer. Blending environmental science, adventure activities and outdoor play summer camps at the Audubon center help young people cultivate curiosity and wonder in nature, build life and leadership skills and develop a keen understanding of the natural forces that shape our world.

Located on Lake Washington in South-East Seattle the Audubon Center at Seward Park is a 277 acre playground with the largest stand of old growth forest in Seattle, 9 miles of hiking trails and beaches all in one of the most culturally diverse zip code in America. Annually the center serves over 6,000 youth and 10,000 adults in education and conservation programs ranging from our popular Owl Prowl night hike for adults to Tiny Trips for Tots, a nature journey for toddlers. More information can be found at http://sewardpark.audubon.org/

Environmental Educator
Seasonal position: June 23rd - August 29th
$112/day ($14/hr)
Regular hours 8am - 4pm M-F w/ weekends off

Skills & Qualifications:
* Professional experience working with youth ages 10-14.
* Positive and energetic with strong relationship skills. Ability to build healthy and professional relationships with staff and students.
* Group facilitation skills including behavior management and conflict resolution.
* Goofy and playful, enjoys playing lots of games and has a bag of tricks.
* Inter-culturally fluent: ability to work effectively with young people from all backgrounds.
* Creative use of outdoor classrooms and natural splendor.
* Ability to build physically and emotionally safe spaces and pass a background check.

To apply please email resume and cover letter to Andrew Jay at ajay@audubon.org

---

Owl's Odyssey: Nature Adventure Camp
Ages 10 - 14
9am - 3 pm M-F
6/30 - 7/11 (4th of July off)*, 7/14-25, 8/4-15 OR 8/18-29

Known as the kung-fu master sorcerer of the forest, Owl can see and hear all. On this two-week extravaganza of awesomeness you will pursue elusive Owl as you uncover the mysteries of the natural world. During your first week, explore the old growth trees, the meadows and the lake and conduct science experiments in Seward Park and the Audubon Center. You'll net butterflies and beetles in the meadow, learn how to call the birds in the forest, go snorkeling and search for underwater life, learn bird calls and hunt for treasures.

During the second week, go feral on a series of wild adventures! Test your courage as you rope up and learn how to climb trees high into the canopy. Hone your communication skills as you work with your partner canoeing on the lake and be a leader as you organize epic games of Capture the Flag and Life and Death in the Forest.
On the last Thursday of camp, celebrate with a cam-out in the park, make offerings to Owl at the campfire and then go on a night hike to call Owl down from the trees. Afterwards, as you crawl into your sleeping bag and share stories of your adventures with your tent mates, you may hear Owl perched high above you, watching and protecting his new friends.

Hours & Location:
5902 Lake Washington Blvd S.
Seattle, WA 98118

Wednesday - Saturday
10:00 AM - 5:00PM

Contact us:
(206) 652-2444
(206) 723-0836 fax
sewardpark.audubon.org
Email for more information on our events

Empowering Conservation Leaders Through Outdoor Exploration, Science and Play