2014 Summer Learning Institute - Cohort #4
A summer enrichment program collaboration with the USC Diversity in Healthcare Leadership Initiative

5-Day Comprehensive Skill-Building “Boot camp”
July 7-11, 2014
USC Sol Price School of Public Policy
650 Childs Way RGL 308
Los Angeles, CA 90089-0626

- Discover MBA-level critical thinking & decision-making tools and assessments;
- Understand and learn to read population data for Los Angeles County service planning areas (SPAs);
- Increase knowledge & practice of cultural relevance and respect for African descended people;
- Examine disparities impacting the health outcomes for Black mothers and babies;
- Apply collaborative land virtual earning;
- Prepare group capstone project with “near peers” - high school, undergraduates and graduating baccalaureates.

Application deadline is May 31, 2014

Become a Millennial Leader

Millennial Leaders are engaged in deep discussions to: 1) eliminate racial disparities; 2) improve health equity for Black mothers and babies throughout the life course; and 3) plan critical interventions within Los Angeles communities. The iDREAM Summer Learning Institute serves as an orientation for intern, mentoring and program assistant candidates.

The USC iDREAM summer enrichment program (SEP) collaboration is a concrete university-community response that provides career exploration (USC Diversity in Healthcare Leadership Institute) and skill-building (iDREAM Summer Learning Institute) for underrepresented, underserved and first-generation undergraduates who are the future decision-makers and thought leaders to eliminate racial health disparities and infant mortality throughout the region, the State of California and nationwide.

“iDREAM plays an ever important role in sustaining the dialogue on minority health among community leaders and improving birth outcomes across the country. I am excited to support the goals of an organization that is willing to challenge the status quo and help make health equity a reality.” LaVonna Lewis, PhD, MPH, Director of USC Diversity in Healthcare Leadership Initiative, Sol Price School of Public Policy.