ASE Commons Event: Diasporas of Empire: An Anti-Imperialist Arab Feminist Critique

Thursday, March 7, 2013 | 3:30 - 5:30pm | KAP 445
Speaker: Nadine Naber (University of Michigan)
Respondent: Sarah Gualtieri (ASE/History)

Arab Americans are one of the most misunderstood segments of the U.S. population, especially after the events of 9/11. In Arab America, Nadine Naber tells the stories of second generation Arab American young adults living in the San Francisco Bay Area, most of whom are political activists engaged in two culturalist movements that draw on the conditions of diaspora, a Muslim global justice and a Leftist Arab movement. Writing from a transnational feminist perspective, Naber reveals the complex and at times contradictory cultural and political processes through which Arabness is forged in the contemporary United States, and explores the apparently intra-communal cultural concepts of religion, family, gender, and sexuality as the battleground on which Arab American young adults and the looming world of America all wrangle. As this struggle continues, these young adults reject Orientalist thought, producing counter-narratives that open up new possibilities for transcending the limitations of Orientalist, imperialist, and conventional nationalist articulations of self, possibilities that ground concepts of religion, family, gender, and sexuality in some of the most urgent issues of our times: immigration politics, racial justice struggles, and U.S. militarism and war.

USC TRiO Upward Bound Math & Science Needs Tutors!

The USC TRiO Upward Bound Math & Science is seeking undergraduate or graduate USC students that would like to tutor Physic, Stats, Algebra II, Chemistry to our High School students on Saturdays from 12:00 pm-2:00pm. Candidates should be enthusiastic and interested in those fields. Starting rate is $12+ an hour, it depends on experience! My ideal goal is to get Viterbi students that in the future will like to mentor our TRiO students.
If anyone is interested to apply they can email me at susyruiz@usc.edu with questions, concerns etc.

Alternative Summer Break - Nicaragua

CJC (Creating Just Communities) sponsors a week-long Alternative Summer Break to Nicaragua beginning the day after Commencement (May 18-26), which is an experiential learning trip that gives students at USC the opportunity to gain a better understanding of the world around them and become more active individuals in their communities. You will get the chance to hear directly from Nicaraguan women who have become leaders in their communities and what has shaped their lives. This opportunity is a chance for students to question their own understandings of the role of women in Nicaragua as they learn the political, social, and economic realities of the Nicaraguan people. The trip focuses on an array of social issues such as Gender Issues, Community Health, Women’s Rights, Economic Justice, Labor Rights, Fair Trade, and Immigration. We spend most of the trip in Managua, but also travel to a rural area for 1-2 days.
Check out this video for more information about the trip: http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=C4EVSM4UXpw
You can request an application by e-mailing creatingjustcommunities@gmail.com. Please email with any questions you have about the trip!
The Corner Room: An LGBT Support Group
Student Counseling Services - Spring 2013: Fridays 10-11:30

Housing Co-operative: Technicolor Tree Tribe!

The Technicolor Tree Tribe is an intentional community, a house where the residents live cooperatively and according to stated values. The house is a space that strives to be feminist (gender equality), non-hierarchical, environmentally conscious, queer, anti-racist, anti-classist, consensual. We try to live as a house how our ideal world would look.

The residents are mostly USC students, and we have weekly meetings to coordinate house activities and have communal vegan dinners where we take turns cooking for each other. We have cats, chickens, and the occasional bumpin' party. If you're looking for a place to live for the '13/'14 academic year or over the summer, please contact us at technicolortreetribe@gmail.com to receive an application or learn more. We'd love to hear from you!
