Teach For America is a national corps of outstanding recent college graduates of all academic majors who commit to teach for two years in urban and rural public schools and become leaders in the effort to expand educational opportunity. At this information session, co-sponsored by the USC Helenes, we will have two current Corps Members (as we like to call our teachers) talking about their experience here at SC and why they decided to work for Teach For America upon graduating. The recruitment team for the Los Angeles area will also be there to answer any questions about the application process for the 2012 academic year.

This information session is geared towards Freshman, Sophomores, and Juniors who are interested in learning more about our program and how they can close the achievement gap in secondary education.

Los Angeles Times Festival of Books comes to USC!

The sixteenth annual edition of the Festival of Books will be held on Saturday, April 30 and Sunday, May 1, at its new location at the University of Southern California (USC), and we would love to have you join us as a volunteer. Last year over 130,000 people attended the Festival, which featured almost one hundred ticketed author events, children's storytelling, poetry readings, book signings and nearly 500 exhibitor booths. The Festival's success has been due in part to the generous assistance of volunteers who welcomed attendees, assisted with registration, staffed author events, supervised book signings and much more.

There are already 700 volunteers signed up and 1,100 total volunteers are needed to make this a great success.
